

Editing

Edit suites

Our daily business is producing news for all SRG Enterprise Units of SRG SSR. In our edit suites we put together new and archive footage with graphics to create broadcast-ready items.

The Studio House of Parliament runs a total of six video edit suites at the Media Centre.

Federal parliament and regional TV correspondents benefit from a networked production environment. From their workstations, they can view the entire library of footage that is stored on our server. They can also edit items independently and send them direct for broadcast or on to our own editing suites for further editing. Each edit suite has access to the newsroom systems of their particular Enterprise Unit.

Finished items can be given voiceovers within the edit suites themselves.